DETAILED ACTION

1. It would be of great assistance to the Office if all incoming papers pertaining to a filed application carried the following items:

1. Application number (checked for accuracy, including series code and serial no.).
2. Group art unit number (copied from most recent Office communication).
3. Filing date.
4. Name of the examiner who prepared the most recent Office action.
5. Title of invention.
6. Confirmation number (See MPEP § 503).

Priority

2. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Admitted prior art figs.6 and 7.

The prior art discloses power correlator and inphase correlator for generating a correlation signal representing correlation between a received signal and spreading codes comprising:
dispredding means for dispredding an inphase component and quadrature component of the received signal; converting means for converting the despread signals into synchronized signals which are inphase with each other; first averager means for averaging the respective synchronized signal over a predetermined period into first average signals; first power calculation means for calculating first power information on the first average signals; second power calculation means for calculating second power information on the despread signals; and second averager means for averaging the second power information over the predetermined period into second average signals. The difference between the present invention and the prior art is that in the present invention the correlation signal output is generated based on the combination of the inphase correlation and power correlation. Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to generate a correlation signal output based on the combination of the power correlation of fig.7 and inphase correlation of fig. 6 so that the correlation output is immune to frequency changes and is excellent in noise resistant.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Omura et al (5,157,686) is cited to show a spread spectrum receiver with correlation calculation.
